

October 27, 2016

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing in wholehearted support of Paola for the internship. I have known Paola since she was a student in my Spanish Translation course last fall. Paola distinguished herself in my course by receiving the highest grade in the class. Paola is the type of person who loves learning. She is one of those people who works very hard and diligently, and enjoys doing it. She constantly strives for excellence in Spanish translation and wants to be one of the best. It should come as no surprise that Paola is well-liked and admired by her peers. Paola would be a great student and peer to have in your Spanish Translation internship program next semester.

I personally know that Paola is a leader and likes to overcome obstacles. She is the head editor of the Spanish Ticker Club at Baruch College, which is a student-run organization that provides the school newspaper translated into Spanish.

In short, Paola's high caliber of character and keen Spanish translation expertise set her well above others at her level of education. I warmly recommend her for an internship.

Best Regards,

Xavier Carrillo

Professor in Translation