

Volunteer Opportunity for EOC Mentors

Dear EOC Mentors,

Would you like to help high school juniors and seniors prepare for college and special programs?

We appreciate all the time, experience and honest advice you provide our Baruch students through our mentoring programs, and because you are such wonderful mentors, we thought of you when a great volunteering opportunity came to our attention via a colleague in Baruch's College Now Program.

The Academy of Finance & Enterprise, one of the high schools College Now at Baruch collaborates with, is currently looking for volunteers to conduct mock interviews to help prepare their students for interviews and acceptance into special programs. These high achieving high school students would benefit tremendously from your advice and feedback.

The mock interviews will take place at the Academy of Finance & Enterprise at 30-20 Thomson Ave. Long Island City, NY 11101; days and times are flexible (whatever works for you, the volunteer).

If you are interested, please contact Janina Morones at JMorones@schools.nyc.gov.

About College Now:

College Now is a collaborative effort of the City University of New York (CUNY) and the New York City Department of Education. Designed to improve the academic achievement of NYC Public High School students, College Now prepares students to begin college-level work. For more information about College Now at Baruch, please contact Associate Director, Clemente Diaz at clemente.diaz@baruch.cuny.edu.

About the Academy of Finance & Enterprise:

The mission of the Academy of Finance and Enterprise is to provide students with a challenging, student-centered, project-based academic, business/financial and technology program. Students will be exposed to the global business world and will be inspired to become respectful and successful members of a continually evolving financial community. Students will participate in mentoring, job shadowing, community service and paid internships.
