How did you create your fine-tuning data? Did you have to add more data later? Did you have to change anything about the data and keep re-training?

I used the PyCharm Community application, to write out my commands for the training, it helped me to ensure that I did not make any mistakes in my code. I also searched for frequently asked questions pertaining to back-packing through Europe as a guide to the questions I should include in my training. None the less, I always provided answers that sound like my speech patterns. Normally, I have a combination of humorous and sarcastic language expressions; however, I choose to use humorous for the fine tuning. I felt that it reflected more my personality and I wanted to make sure that the chatbot responded more like me. There was not a need, at least I felt to add any additional data; therefore, I did not add any additional data, nor did I make any changes to my initial fine tuning data file.

The screenshot displays the OpenAI Playground interface. On the left, the 'Trip to Europe' assistant is selected. The 'Name' field contains 'Trip to Europe' and the 'Instructions' field contains 'Create a Back-packing trip to Europe Itinerary'. The 'Model' is set to 'gpt-3.5-turbo'. The 'TOOLS' section includes 'Functions', 'Code interpreter', and 'Retrieval', all of which are currently disabled. Below the tools, there is a 'FILES' section with an 'Add' button. The main chat area shows a thread with the question: 'Which European countries should i visit on my back packing trip?'. The assistant's response is a detailed itinerary with five numbered steps: 1. Start in Portugal (Lisbon and Sintra), 2. Move on to Spain (Madrid and Barcelona), 3. Next stop, France (Paris, Versailles, Nice, and Cannes), 4. Explore Italy (Rome, Tuscany, and Venice), and 5. Head east to Croatia (Dubrovnik, Hvar, and Split). At the bottom of the chat area, there is an input field with the placeholder text 'Enter your message...' and buttons for 'Add and run', 'Add', and a microphone icon.

Did it sound more like you would in its responses?

The Chatbot after fine tuning sounds more like my personal interest! The original itinerary prior to its training generate a more generalized itinerary with days and locations that one should travel; however, the chatbot that has been fine tuned to sound more like me gave me a more detailed explanation of the locations that I should visit, and it considered the fact that I am interested in learning about the culture, architecture, and history. Personally, I prefer a chatbot that it more in tuned to my personal preferences especially in this case of planning a vacation.
